Put Your Employees & Contractors to the Test!

Will your Employees fall for a scam?

Are you worried about your employees clicking suspicious links, downloading malicious files, or sending private data to cyber criminals? Put them to the test with our phishing simulation.

What is Phishing?

PHISHING is an insidious attempt to hack into your network using your employee's natural inclination to believe that they are opening an actual email from a known source.

Protect Your Data

How does it Work?

Our hacking experts design an email with an enticing button or link for your employees to click on. This button is a phony phishing link, designed specifically for the test. It does NOT lead to any legitimate danger.

After the design process we send that email to all of your employees and monitor who opens it, and who clicks on the link.

Finally, we compile the test results into a one page analysis to use as part of your internal education campaign.

You also get an opportunity to review Quantum Service's Group and our ability to maintain and protect your network.

Our Managed Services portfolio is a complete system to maintain your computers and network, protecting it from harm and optimizing it for efficient use by your employees.
